

A word from Boqueria – Clapham

London's Boqueria is an exciting tapas restaurant located on Brixton's Acre Lane. Unique in its pedigree, Boqueria is entirely inspired by Barcelona's iconic El Mercat de San Josep de la Boqueria, a famed market synonymous with Spain's food and wine. With this in mind the Boqueria team seek to introduce diners to the most traditional flavours of Spain in a setting that really wouldn't look out of place along the streets of Barca. Forget everything you might have learned in the conveyor belt tapas joints of London and settle in to enjoy the authentic recipes of true tapas bars - dishes made using fresh ingredients, specialty Spanish ingredients and just a sprinkling of creativity to capture the real essence of España. As important to the Boqueria experience as food is drink. On the wine list is a small selection of only high quality Spanish wines while a specialty menu of sherries and cava complements the menu and brings a fresh perspective to dinner time drinks.

Boqueria - Clapham reviews from toptable diners

95 reviews since 23 January, 2013

Average rating  4.3

Food  4.3

Ambience  4

Service  4.2

Value  4

98% customers would recommend this restaurant.

Filter reviews by:

- group bookings (51)
- fit for foodies (49)
- romance (38)
- special occasions (37)
- outstanding value (25)
- good vegetarian options (15)
- Sunday lunch (11)
- business meals (10)
- pre/post theatre (10)
- child friendly (5)

Fewer